Harvesting Good Crops.

One day recently the writer crossed the Boena Vista marsh between this city and Bancroft, and the contrast between the crops the settlers have been raising out in that section and those grown on higher ground was worthy of note.

Their grain has been all cut at this time and some of it thrashed, and not only has it attained a rank and luxuriant growth, but that that has been thrashed has turned out very satisfactory, some of the wheat running thirty-five bushels to the acre.

Corn is not ripe yet, of course, but the most of it stands six feet high, and has a large number of ears on it, and if we have a normal season from now on there is every indication that there will be a good crop.

There have been bothered a great deal by fires on some parts of the marsh, but in most cases it was just the wild land that burned over, that under cultivation escaping without damage. Draining the marsh and the fact that the season has been unusually dry has left the top of the ground in an ideal condition to burn, and where once it got started it has smoldered along continuously without what rain that has fallen having any effect on it.

The settlers on the marsh have of late constructed several dams across the drainage ditches so as to confine the water above the level of the fields and with the aid of ditches have been irrigating their crops, so that it does not make much difference to them now whether it rains or not.

Those who are conversant with the conditions out there state that the portions of the marsh that have been burned over will not be injured by the fire, as the soil needs the chemical properties contained in the ashes to bring it to a proper condition in the most rapid manner. Otherwise the top layer has to rot, which takes considerably more time.

One of the surprising things to the visitor of this section is the large number of settlers already located in that region, and the indications are that it will not be many years before all of the land in that section is taken up and placed under cultivation.

Death of Charles Pribbanow.

Charles Pribbanow, one of the old settlers of this section, died in this city on Sunday evening at the age of 82 years, death being due to old age and paralysis.

Deceased was born on the 30th of June, 1828, at Meosow, Germany, and was married in 1852 to Minnie Berg, who is still living in this city, the couple having spent 58 years of their life together. They had born to them twelve children, only four of whom are living, they being Herman and William Pribbanow and Mrs. Emma Erdman of this city, and Otto Pribbanow of Nekeosa. There are eleven grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Mr. Pribbanow came to America in 1860 and settled near Kellner, which at that time was a wilderness, and lived there until about a year ago, when he moved to this city, where he has since made his home. The funeral occurred on Tuesday from the west side Lutheran church, Rev. Wm. Nommensen conducting the services, the remains being interred in Forest Hill cemetery.

—Hon. E. B. Hicks at the opera house, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Ploymann of the west side are rejoicing over the arrival of twin boys at their home on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Mait are happy over the arrival of a brand new baby girl at their home, which event occurred on Monday.

Charles Briere and F. G. Gilkey have purchased the property from E. P. Arpin now occupied by Mrs. A. L. Skinner for a grocery. Consideration private.

Misses Eleanor Slattery and Laurie Drumb returned on Tuesday from Sturgeon Bay where they had been visiting with friends and relatives for a week.

A. J. Freund was called to Appleton on Saturday by the death of his father, Nicholas Freund, who died at his home in that city on Saturday, the 20th instant, at the age of 86 years.

Frank Whitlock, the melon man, has been supplying a few of his customers with melons during the past week, although he reports that the fruit is ripening slowly and that the crop is rather light.

A. W. Bryant of Springfield, Ill., spent Tuesday in the city looking after some business matters. Mr. Bryant formerly made his home here, but is now traveling out of Springfield for an electrical company.

Hon. Chas. H. Weiss of Sheboygan was in the city for a few hours on Thursday, looking over the political situation in this locality. Mr. Weiss is a candidate before the September primaries for the office of U. S. Senator.

—Glenwood addition, adjoining the Neitzel farm, below Riverview hospital, lots are level, high and dry, good water, best of neighborhood, main road, daily mail. Your choice of lots at $40. Extra good lots at $28. Easy terms. See Geo. N. Wood, owner.

J. T. Schumacher caught a trout that weighed about a pound and a half out of the Four Mile Creek on Sunday. The fish was covered with spots and minute scales but was not so prettily decorated as the speckled trout. Fishermen who profess to know say that it was a mountain trout.

The members of the Methodist Sunday school held their picnic at the pavilion last Wednesday, and notwithstanding the fact that the weather was not of the best, a good time was had by all. Dinner was served, after which games were played and a general good time had.

Report a Good Business.

The National Realty Company, which has been selling lots on the east side from their Overlook Heights Addition since Saturday, report that things have been moving along nicely and that the sale has been all that was expected, and that the people of Grand Rapids are taking a great deal of interest in the matter.

The tract of land which is located on top of the hill on South Third street, has been laid out into streets and all staked off in fine shape. The streets have been graded up and named and the addition presents a very handsome appearance, being perfectly level and lies very nicely for building lots. The new addition takes in a part of the grove south of the field, and the trees have been cut down and the stumps will be taken out and the roads graded there also.

Death of Mrs. Birringer.

Mrs. J. S. Birringer died at the home of her son John in Wausau on Saturday, August 20th, after an illness of five months from a complication of diseases.

Deceased was born in January, 1843, near Frankfort, Germany, and was therefore 67 years of age at the time of her death. She came to Stevens Point 40 years ago, and later to Grand Rapids, moving here 22 years ago. Mrs. Birringer is survived by seven children, five girls and two boys, they being Mrs. P. H. Jacobs of Marshfield, Mrs. John H. West of Alberta, Mrs. Wm. Melneke of Park Falls, Mrs. M. W. Mosher and Mrs. Wm. Compton of this city and George Birringer of Maywood and John Birringer of Wausau.

The remains were brought to this city and interred on Wednesday morning at nine o'clock, services being held at St. Peter and Paul church, Rev. Wm. Reding officiating.

A Timbered Lot.

—Buy a lot with about enough good timber on it to pay for the lot.

We have for sale in Overlook Heights a number of choice lots upon which is a beautiful growth of timber suitable for lumber and firewood. These lots are being sold for just about what the timber is worth.

On Their Way to Marshfield.

The Cosmopolitan Carnival Company passed their city on Sunday evening on their way to Marshfield, where they are holding forth this week during the fair. While passing thru the city several tunes were played on the steam calliope, attracting considerable attention. The outfit was hauled thru on a special train and appeared to be quite a large affair.

Woodman Picnic.

The Modern Woodman Camps of Grand Rapids, Nekeosa and Port Edwards are to join on Sept. 8 in holding a picnic and dance at the pavilion. This promises to be one of the enjoyable events of the season. The committee in charge of arrangements are J. R. Ragau, Atty. Chas. E. Briere, H. O. Timm, Fred Bossert and Bert Nason.

Bitten by a Dog.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. McCarthy was bitten by a dog belonging to James Welch on Monday, the child's face being lacerated to some extent. No evil results are anticipated, as the dog was eating at the time and the child approached the animal to pet it, when the dog snapped at the little fellow.

Says he could have caught as many more, but really felt as if he had done his duty.

Locals Win at Baseball.

The baseball team that came to this city from Green Bay on Sunday to play the locals just got a look in and that was about all. Verdict for Defendant.

In the case of John Fors against the Consolidated Water Power & Paper Company, Judge Rold has recently rendered his decision which is in favor of the Consolidated people. The plaintiff brought suit to recover damages for the death of his daughter, who, in company with three others, was drowned by being carried thru a sluiceway in the dam, and the jury divided the responsibility in the case between the Consolidated company and those in the launch. Judge Rold decides the case against the plaintiff and declares that he shall also pay the costs in the suit.

The facts concerning the new paper mill are taken from the Spokane Daily Chronicle, which contains a lengthy writeup of the new industry as well as a picture of proposed plans and portraits of those interested in the matter. The paper was sent the Tribune by Walter Gardner, who is now a resident of Spokane.

An Amateur Effort.

Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Keady spent one day last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Searls, near Walker station. Mr. Keady reports that he was fishing while out there and that he pulled out fish until his arm was lame and his back began to ache from the unusual exertion, so he stopped and counted up and found he had landed seventy-six large bull-heads and one dogfish. Says he could have caught as many more, but really felt as if he had done his duty.

Locals Win at Baseball.

The baseball team that came to this city from Green Bay on Sunday to play the locals just got a look in and that was about all. The locals ran in four scores on the visitors in the first inning, and during the remainder of the game got in four more, while the visitors only got two, making the score 8 to 2 at the end of the game.

Grand Rapids Day.

Friday of this week will be Grand Rapids day at the Marshfield fair, and the management of that institution are making every effort possible to have it one of the most interesting days of the series.

The band has been engaged to go up from this city, taking the special train at nine o'clock in the morning, and the baseball team will also go and play a game with the Marshfield boys in the morning.

Besides the regular attractions at the fair there will be a carnival in full swing on the main street of the city during the evening, which will furnish amusement for the visitors until they leave for home.

Verdict for Defendant.

In the case of John Fork against the Consolidated Water Power & Paper Company, Judge Reed has recently rendered his decision which is in favor of the Consolidated people.

The plaintiff brought suit to recover damages for the death of his daughter, who, in company with three others, was drowned by being carried thru a sluiceway in the dam, and the jury divided the responsibility in the case between the Consolidated company and those in the launch. Judge Reed decides the case against the plaintiff and declares that he shall also pay the costs in the suit.

Crisis in L. W. Bowers' Career

Insulted by a Judge, the Man Who May Become a Supreme Court Justice Nearly Abandoned the Practice of Law.

"Now that Lloyd W. Bowers, the solicitor general of the United States, is being talked of as a probable Taft nomination for the Supreme court, I am reminded of an incident in Mr. Bowers' career which furnishes the crisis of his life, and of that incident I have personal knowledge," remarked a lawyer of national fame who once was very close himself to becoming a Supreme Court justice.

"I think I am safe in saying," continued my informant, "that there is not at the bar of the United States, and never has been, a man of greater felicity of sentiment or of more constant and perfect recognition of the rights and feelings of others than Mr. Bowers. He also has a high sense of personal honor, and it was due to the combination of these characteristics that there arose the crisis in his life of which I speak."

"Following his graduation from the Columbia law school, he had been for some time managing clerk of a leading law office in New York city. There he was highly esteemed and a great career was predicted at the bar for him. And there he appeared one day, displaying every evidence of a sense of humiliation, the manner of a man who had met with a grievous personal insult."

"His friends looked around him—what was the matter, they asked? Then, in effect, Mr. Bowers told them that he had that day had such an unhappy experience in court he had decided to abandon forever the profession of the law. He had appeared in court, he said, to ask that a long-pending matter be decided by the court, stating that it was of no real consequence how the matter was decided, but that it was important that the decision should be made that the accounts in question for the living expenses of his client be released. But no sooner had he made his statement, Mr. Bowers went on to say, than the court stated that the matter was decided, and that it was important that the decision should be made that the accounts in question for the living expenses of his client be released. But no sooner had he made his statement, Mr. Bowers went on to say, than the court stated that the matter was decided, and that it was important that the decision should be made that the accounts in question for the living expenses of his client be released."

"The boy stood at the plate, with the bat outstretched directly in front of him, like a musket at present arms. Thus holding the bat, he let the ball hit it squarely after one or two balls he had been pitched. Immediately the ball dropped, jumped, and landed within an arm's length of the pitcher. The ball struck the pitcher's foot, and he fell. Mr. Bowers beamed all over. 'Now,' he shouted above the uproar, 'you will see the captain of the team making vigorous objection.' Sure enough, the pitcher rose and said, 'I have brought you here, Mr. Bowers, the most enthusiastic fan I have ever known, that you might see at work the new youngster I found at work with the old Athletics of Brooklyn. He's out there at short stop now, and I want you to keep your eye on him. I don't mean that you should keep your eyes glued on him while he is playing shortstop, although he is very good in that position. But when he comes to bat don't take your eyes off of him.'"

When Washington Cried

General Broke Down, Fearing He Would Lose the Battle of the Brandywine Unless Discouraged Soldiers Were Paid.

A year or so before the venerable C. C. Clarke, now in his eighty-eighth year, retired, in 1900, as vice-president of the New York Central railroad, he called me into his office and pointed to a paragraph in a newspaper containing some reference to Robert Morris, the financier of the American revolution.

"In the late thirties when I went to college in Geneva, N. Y.," said Mr. Clarke, "I made the acquaintance of a man of the name of Brown, who had for years been postmaster of the village, and who was then well along in the eighties. In the course of this acquaintance I found out that he had been a clerk in the office of Robert Morris at the time when he was exhausting his fortune in behalf of the fighting colonies, and many an hour I spent with the old man listening to his anecdotes of the great financier."

"One afternoon, shortly before the battle of the Brandywine, which took place in the fall of '77," said Mr. Brown, "General Washington, unattended, came to Mr. Morris' office, and he seemed to be in great anxiety, and he hastened to explain to Mr. Morris that unless he could have some money within a few days he would be unable to pay each man in the army a little of what was due him, this payment would do much to revive the army's courage and morale, and if this were accomplished, there was little doubt but that the British would be held in check."

"For a moment Mr. Morris was silent; then he replied that he himself was without funds, that he did not know where he could raise even the floor. I looked at Mr. Morris, to see how he was affected, and found him appearing to be very anxious, and he said that he had been sending some papers that had been assigned before him prior to General Washington's arrival. Then, as suddenly as he had broken down, General Washington regained his composure, and went on to say that if Mr. Morris could find with in twenty-four hours sufficient money to pay each man in the army a little of what was due him, this payment would do much to revive the army's courage and morale, and if this were accomplished, there was little doubt but that the British would be held in check."

"And right here, and all of a sudden," said Mr. Brown, "General Washington broke down completely. He put his hands to his face so that he might conceal his emotion, but I saw the tears trickling down between his hands. He was completely overcome, and I was so awe-stricken at the spectacle of the commander-in-chief of the Continental army in tears that I stood as though I were transfixed to the spot."

The Sting of a Bee

An eastern fable tells of a potentate who demanded that there should be brought to him the sting of a bee, and bees killed because one of their colony had dared commit lese-majeste by stinging the hand of royalty. When they were brought in a tiny golden thimble the king was so amazed to find that a thousand of the hypodermic points made such a little mass that he issued a manifesto to the effect that thereafter no person within the bounds of the kingdom should complain at the sting of a bee. The lessons of the fable is that petty annoyances hurt because they are exaggerated in the mind, that when they are seen in their actual proportions they are so slight as to merit only contempt. How much comfort would come to the majority of persons if they could but see the tiny size of the bee stings that lead them to acts of peevishness, words of anger, expressions of reproach. The bee sting annoyance, have caused life-long breaches of friendship, they have broken up

As a Republican candidate for state treasurer, petitions were filed for State Treasurer A. H. Dahl of Westby who seeks renomination and reelection. The number of voters signing his petitions is 6,425.

For S. A. Cook of Neenah, Republican candidate for United States senator, 5,723 voters filed their petitions. Michael E. State Needs 26,000 Tons. Twenty thousand four hundred tons of bituminous coal will be required by the state board of control for use in the various charitable and public institutions of the state for the coming year and notices are now being sent to contractors to bid upon the specifications prepared. The quantities estimated for the various institutions, in tons, are as follows:

State hospital, Madison, 1,000; School for Deaf, Deaf-blind, 1,000; School for Blind, Wausau, 1,000; State prison, Waupun, 1,000; Reformatory, Green Bay, 1,000; Home for Feeble-Minded, Chippewa Falls, 1,000; Reformatory, Green Bay, 1,000; Tuberculosis sanatorium, Wailes, 2,000.

Not to Press Injunction. The state park board notified Judge E. Ray Stevens that it desired not to press the injunction case against the American Refractories company, operating at Devil's lake.

The question of the company bringing a damage suit against the state is to be considered.

The fact that the company probably will not do much more blasting this season on the grounds desired for a park also accounts for the action.

Educator Is Dead. News was received here of the death of Prof. John A. Craig, professor of animal husbandry at the college of agriculture at the University of Wisconsin from 1890 to 1897, at his home at San Antonio, Tex. The cause of his death is not known here. Since he left Wisconsin he was connected with different agricultural colleges of the west. He was well known to horsemen of the country.

New Corporations. Articles of incorporation were filed in the office of Secretary of State Frear as follows: Antigo Creamery company, Antigo; capital, $10,000; incorporators, A. TO RAISE FINEST FURS

Project to Keep $14,000,000 From Going Abroad.

Dr. C. C. Young Imports Flock of Karakul Sheep and Describes Success of Crossing Them With American Breeds.

Chicago.—A project designed to keep in the United States the $14,000,000 now going abroad annually for the Astrakhan, Persian broadtail and krimmer furs so fashionable among wealthy Americans has been launched by Dr. C. C. Young, a former Chicago physician, now commissioner of agriculture for the State of Colorado, Mexico.

It is the breeding of Karakul sheep, the basis of all the fine furs that come from Persia and other portions of Central Asia. He has succeeded in bringing to America after great expense and much trouble, on account of the rigid laws forbidding the importation of Asiatic sheep because of the danger of importing with them Asiatic diseases, a flock of full-blood Karakul sheep and has begun the crossing of them with American sheep at his ranch at Menor, Colorado.

Dr. Young was born in Besarabka, a province of south Russia, and there was familiar as a boy with the Karakul sheep which produce the beautiful fur, although he then never saw a full-blood Karakul. He came to America when sixteen years old, took up the study of medicine, was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1901, and was for a time on the advisory staff of the Cook County hospital.

SNAKES IN SPORTING CLASS

Pennsylvania Reptiles Make Good at Fishing Trout—Also Attack Farmer's Pigs.

Altoona, Pa.—Two recent incidents prove the Blair county snake to be in the sporting class, his hunting not always quite lucky in his hunting and fishing experiences.

Before returning to the city from his summer home at Royer, Postmaster George Fox of this city went down to Piney creek to look for trout.

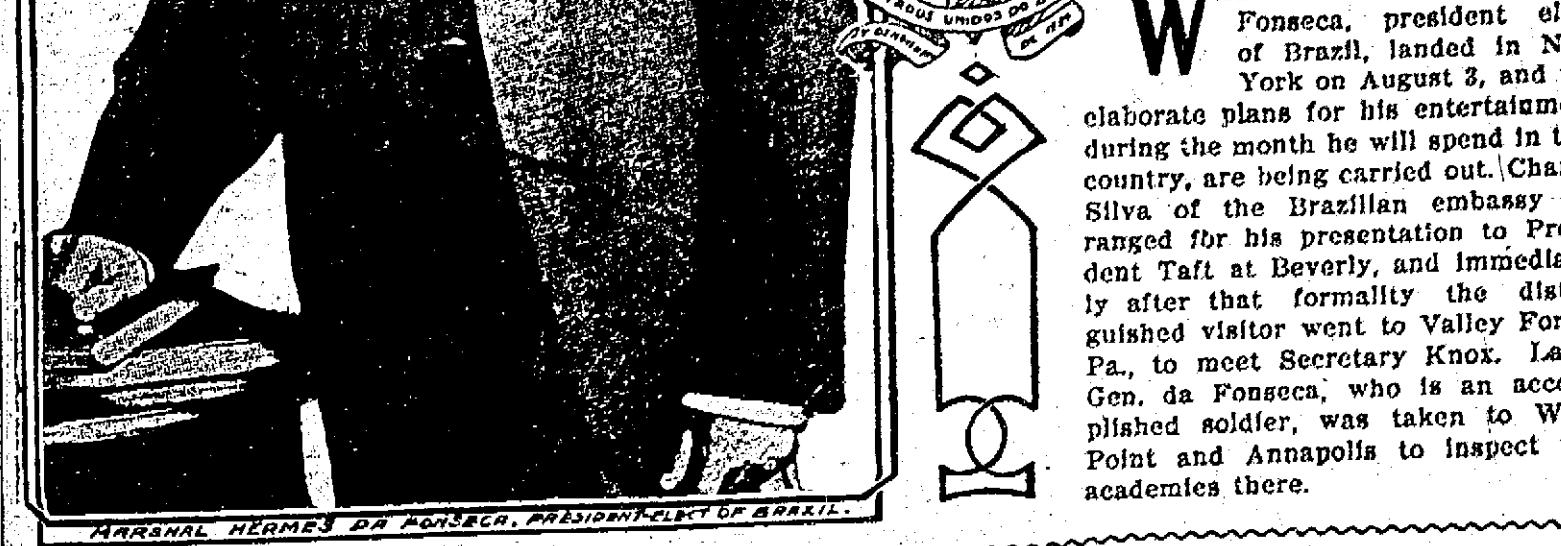

As Fox was crossing the bridge he heard a commotion at the water's edge and, looking down, saw a water snake trying to swallow a seven-inch trout. Proclaiming his landing net, for he is a noted fisherman, Fox, assisted by George D. Cook, a Harrisburg merchant, who has been his guest for several days, landed both the snake and the trout until a cudgel landed a nice meal for the trout and its friend.

Only the day before an Altoona rail-roader discovered the same snake, an old inhabitant of the pool, devouring trout, but the reptile got away. Its chief diet for a long time has been trout, it being an adept at catching them.

Hearing a pig emitting unearthly squeals, Harry Jones, a farmer, near Ebensburg, hastened to his pig sty and was astounded to find one of his pigs encircled by a blacksnake and slowly being squeezed to death. Jones grabbed up a rake and killed the reptile, which measured six feet four inches in length, four inches in diameter and 12 inches in circumference.

Drowsiness in Church. London.—In a case at Westminster county court the other day a doctor said that drowsiness in church was caused by the continual breathing of carbolic acid gas. People soon recovered when they got out into the open air, he declared.

HONORS FOR PRESIDENT-ELECT OF BRAZIL

WASHINGTON.—Hermes da Fonseca, president elect of Brazil, landed in New York on August 3, and the elaborate plans for his entertainment during the month he will spend in this country, are being carried out. Charge Silva of the Brazilian embassy arranged for his presentation to President Taft at the White House, and immediately after that formally the distinguished visitor went to Valley Forge, Pa., to meet Secretary Knox. Later Gen. da Fonseca, who is an accomplished soldier, was taken to West Point and Annapolis to inspect the academies there.

Adam and Eve Made Love in Eden, Therefore Their Children Should Do the Same.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Public courtship was upheld in the pulpit by Rev. G. L. Morrill, pastor of the People's church. "This was in answer to a popular appeal made to the city authorities to stop spooning in the parks."

"Adam and Eve were placed in Eden to spoon, and their children have been at it ever since. Mingling winds, nodding flowers, hills that kiss the skies, creeks that mingle with rivers, and waves that clasp each other, are but a commentary on Solomon's words that 'two are better than one,'" said the minister.

CATS SLAUGHTER GAME BIRDS

Semi-Wild Animals Become Serious Menace in Oregon—Plan for Extirmination.

Marshfield, Ore.—Calvin Wright, one of Coos county's game wardens, gives it as his opinion that the worst enemy of the game birds in this locality is the house cat which has become wild. Mr. Wright has just returned from an extensive trip up and down the coast country, and he declares that the cats are doing away with the game birds.

Coos county is a great place for cats, both in the cities and the country districts, and they have increased with such rapidity that there are not homes sufficient for all of them. As a consequence the cats have become wild and run in the hundreds. Mr. Wright says that the increase of these semi-wild animals in the woods is much greater than would be imagined. He says that the cats not only break up the nests and kill or drive away the old birds, but that they devour scores of the young before they are able to protect themselves.

So great has become the menace that Deputy Wright will take up the cat matter with State Game Warden Stephenson and will advise the secretary of a bounty for the killing of cats which are not properly confined.

King Inherits Old Royal

London.—Some queer royal relics have been brought to light at Windsor castle. Preparations are being made for the introduction of the royal library of some exhibition cases for the display of these objects of historic interest. Among the collection is the baby linen used by Charles I. and the lace shirt the ill-fated monarch wore on the day of his execution in Whitehall as an extra garment because of the cold.

London Firm Sells Microbes to Be Introduced into Cream to Kill Decay Germs.

The price of the cultures used in these processes vary from 75 cents to $2.50 a bottle, and full instructions to dairymen are issued with each consignment. The cultures are equally effective in margarine.

IN A BEE-SQUIRREL BATTLE

Proving Boy Has Time of His Life Defending Himself While Up in a Honey Tree.

Germania, Pa.—To have enraged a colony of half a dozen flying squirrels to attack a boy, while the incident as a whole has suddenly disclosed a trait of this type of squirrel that even old woodsmen and hunters never knew of.

Flying squirrels have always been looked upon with more or less contempt, and many gunners utterly refused to shoot them because of a superstition, something akin to that with reference to a white dove, that the killing would bring bad luck to some member of the offender's family.

Young Sloan is an adept at "hitting" wild bees and was engaged in that business when he in the Kettle creek region when he had the experience of his life. He invaded the tree inhabited by bees and squirrels and the latter attacked him, one after another, as fast as the bees themselves, and equally mad. The little animals hit the boy terribly, one of them inflicting an ugly gash on the eye. Sloan was almost blinded, but he finally groped his way down along the tree to the ground, though the aroused squirrels continued to follow him until he was safely on the ground and able to defend himself with a cudgel.

GRAND RAPIDS TRIBUNE

GRAND RAPIDS, WIS.

STEEL TRUST AS CAT BUYER.

A rat got tangled up in one of the dynamos which supply power for the great blast furnaces mill of the United States Steel Corporation at Gary, Ind., says Louisville Courier-Journal. It required several hours to separate the rat's remains from the dynamo and in the meantime the corporation was losing money at the rate of a thousand dollars a minute. Now the steel trust is advertising for cats. Advertisements have been inserted in the Gary news papers, offering 50 cents apiece, with no limitations as to age, sex, size, pedigree or character. Fifty cents a head in a good price for cats and the officials of the steel trust are likely to have to contend with an embarrassment of offerings. When the news percolates to all the cities and small towns of Indiana there will be a rush of feline shipments to Gary and the steel trust will find itself with a surplus of cats scarcely less troublesome than the overplus of rats with which it has been contending heretofore. Hundreds of Indiana families will willingly part with all their feline possessions at a compensation of 50 cents per cat. Some thousands of small boys will explore the alleys and woodsheds until the last backyard fence is denuded.

The report from Plankton that royal engineers state that the inclination of the leaning tower at that place has increased eight inches and that the structure is likely to collapse will tend to further increase the number of those who believe that the tower was never intended to be a freak of masonry, but that it became a wonder by the yielding of its foundation on one side. As a "drawing card" for tourists the famous leaning tower has had value in addition to the historic considerations, and if it should fall there would doubtless be a demand for its reconstruction. A modern building could give Plankton a leaning tower of greater inclination by using an anchored steel skeleton and clothing it with well fastened veneer.

A speaker at a meeting of a medical society in New Jersey declared that some of the greatest surgeons living had left sponges, forceps and other instruments in the abdominal cavities of persons operated upon, and that the practice was "inexcusable." This makes cheerful reading for the lay public, especially that portion of it that has hospital experience in prospect; but the statement of the existence of this practice is also puzzling from the fact that it must be a more or less expensive practice to the surgeons themselves to be so careless about losing good instruments.

DEFEAT ROOSEVELT

IS DENIED HONOR OF PRESIDING OVER REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

'OLD GUARD' REJECT COLONEL

Vice-President Sherman Is Chosen by Vote of 20 to 15 to Be Temporary Chairman at Saratoga on September 27.

New York.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt's name was presented for the office of temporary chairman of the Republican state convention at the meeting of the Republican state committee Tuesday, but his selection for that honor was lost by a vote of 20 to 15. Vice-President Sherman was chosen unanimously to act as temporary presiding officer.

Let by State Chairman Woodruff and William H. Bates, Jr., of Albany, the "Old Guard" encompassed the defeat of Colonel Roosevelt, whom several of the state leaders charged with attempting to dictate the fortunes of the party in the state.

After the meeting had been called to order at the time and place of the state convention had been decided, William H. Bates, Jr., offered a resolution presenting the name of Vice-President Sherman for temporary chairman of the convention. Lloyd C. Griscom, moved to substitute the name of Colonel Roosevelt, and the motion also that the vote be postponed.

After much debate the motion to postpone was defeated by a vote of 12 to 23. The resolution to make Colonel Roosevelt temporary chairman then was lost by 20 to 15, following which Vice-President Sherman was unanimously chosen for temporary presiding officer. Mr. Griscom and Henry Mack of New York not voting.

The state committee adjourned to meet September 26 at Saratoga. Commenting upon the action of the committee in rejecting the name of Colonel Roosevelt, Mr. Griscom said:

"I presented the name of the former president after consulting him. The place of the temporary chairman was obviously his, not only by virtue of his having been president of the United States, but because of the fact that he was the only one of the Republican party in New York state. Mr. Roosevelt was anxious to engage in the political campaign in this state, and his name at the head of the convention would have lent extraordinary prestige to the cause, and would have been of incalculable value to the party throughout the state."

"The action forebodes many party contests, as it is obvious that those voting to deny him the office of temporary chairman will have to account to the entire Republican party for their respective districts for their action."

"There was no question of endorsing or not endorsing the administration. If an effort is made to show that the choice of Vice-President Sherman is an endorsement, whereas the choice of an endorsement would not have been, it must of necessity fail, as Mr. Roosevelt's views regarding the conduct of public affairs by his successor are well known."

TROOPS TO COMBAT FLAMES
Soldiers Are Rushed to National Forests in Northwest to Fight Destructive Fires.

Washington.—Forest fires in the northwest, threatening destruction to human life and to millions of dollars worth of property, have alerted officials of the interior department and fire service.

In response to appeals from the fire zones additional United States soldiers were Saturday rushed to assist in combating the flames.

The soldiers have been dispatched to the Coast Range, Idaho, Lewis and Clark, Mont., Wallows, Mont., and Colville, Wash.; national forests; the Flathead Indian reservation, Montana, and the Glacier National park, Montana.

The troops have been sent over the top of the highest peaks of the army, has informed the interior department and forest service officials that the assistance of the army will be given in meeting the emergency to the limit of the number of soldiers available.

At Walla Walla, Idaho, hundreds of pounds of dynamite, hung to the limbs of trees on high points surrounding the city and exploded in the hope that the effect might produce rain to check the devastation wrought by forest fires, is said to have had a result for rain began falling Sunday for the first time in two months. The fall has been heavy.

A dispatch from Stiles, Idaho, says the situation in the Elk City district is the worst in the history of that region. The high winds in the mountains for the last two days and nights the forest fires are burning with fury. The whole country in the vicinity of Elk City is ablaze.

FIVE INJURED IN CAR RIOTS

COLUMBUS TRACTION COMPANY SUSPEND ALL TRAFFIC.

Mayor Declares He Will Not Call for Troops—Conductor Fires Into Crowd.

Columbus, O.—Rioting was resumed in this city Sunday night and one man was fatally shot and five others injured. So fierce was the violence of the crowds that all street car traffic was abandoned during the night.

Mayor Marshall again declared that he would not call for troops. He said police would continue to ride the cars. Rioting started at Shiller park, where a band concert was being held. A mob gathered in Mohawk avenue blocked the car tracks and stopped the cars. Jeering mobs gathered about the crews and a fight started.

Motorman L. S. Durrill was struck in the head with a brick, and fell unconscious in the street. Conductor W. P. Miller and Motorman L. P. Evans of another car, were also attacked and severely bruised by sticks and rocks.

When two automobile loads of police arrived the crowd numbered about 5,000 people. Three rioters were arrested.

When John J. Gallagher, a conductor, was called "scab" by a crowd near Saint Clair avenue, he turned to a woman sitting behind him. She handed him a huge revolver which he took from a valise at his side. He began firing into the crowd. The woman, tall and handsome, stood up and cried "Give it to them, Jack."

Just then an automobile load of police drove up. Gallagher and the woman were placed under arrest. In the woman's valise were found two revolvers and ammunition. She was taken to the police station.

At the police station Gallagher and his wife were released on bond, furnished by the railroad company. Emmet Hoover was shot through the leg by a motorman, whom the crowd tried to drag off and beat.

BELGIAN EXPOSITION BURNS
100,000 People in Panic—Two Persons Killed and Forty Injured, Some Fatally.

Brussels.—One hundred thousand visitors were thrown into a panic by a fire that wiped out the entire Belgian exposition. Two persons are known to be dead and 40 injured, some fatally.

The flames started in the French section and had gained considerable headway before they were discovered. The instant the alarm was given, the 100,000 persons at the exposition became panic-stricken and a wild rush was made for the exits.

The people fought and struggled in a mad attempt to get out of the place. Many of those hurt received injuries by falling to the floor and being trampled upon by the crowd.

Brussels.—As a result of the partial destruction of the Belgian exposition by fire Sunday night, the executive committee at a meeting held Monday decided to close the fair until the ruins of the burned sections could be cleared away, when the exposition will again be opened.

It is impossible to estimate the damage caused by the fire, but the extent of the destruction and the loss of life and property were estimated roughly at $100,000,000.

The entire Belgian and British sections of the exposition were destroyed. The structure will consist of three brick buildings, connected by a long covered walkway. They will be surrounded by large grounds enclosed in a high concrete wall.

It will accommodate about 100 people, and cost about $100,000. The structure will be a model of the new school for boys in Washington, D. C. The cost will be about $1,500.

WAREHOUSE BLAZE

PLANKINTON SMOKED MEAT DEPARTMENT SUFFERS FROM FIRE AND WATER.

AN EARLY MORNING ALARM

Warehouse C Is Destroyed and Adj. Buildings Are Flooded. Was Hard Fought to Fight on Account of Construction of Buildings.

Milwaukee.—Warehouse C, which is located the smoked meat department of the Plankinton Packing company, foot of Thirteenth street, was practically destroyed by fire.

The fire damage, in addition to that done by water, which is great, owing to the fact that the basement of adjoining warehouses were flooded, probably will bring the loss to $75,000. This is partially covered by insurance.

According to officials of the company the burned building will be immediately rebuilt and the fire will in no wise interfere with the filling of orders. Shortly after the fire broke out, rush orders were sent to Chicago firms for enough meat to supply all current orders.

Warehouse C, the destroyed building, is one of a number of buildings on the south side of the plant that adjoin one another. The other buildings, of which there are three, are cooling houses.

Situated Warehouse C is between two of these it was feared at first that they would all be destroyed.

Soon after his arrival on the scene of the fire Acting Chief Linkmeyer sent in a third alarm, and succeeded in containing the fire in the building in which it had started.

In the basement of warehouses B and D are stored thousands of tons of cured meat. Much of this was damaged by the water.

The fire was not able to spread until the roof had burned through, as the side walls are of solid brick and the end walls had only a few small windows in them.

The fire was discovered by the night watchman in making his rounds.

The building was of three-story brick construction and had been used as smokehouse, storehouse, and shipping department.

There was some danger at the start on account of ammonia fumes, but the engineer succeeded in turning off the ammonia into the sewer.

Directly south of Warehouse C is a large ham smokehouse. The wind blowing from the north carried the flames across on the trolleyway between the two plants, and the second building was partially burned.

This is the second fire that has occurred at the plant within a year. On Feb. 1 the hog killing warehouse was partially destroyed.

The engineer and fireman tried to jump as the crash came, but were pinned in the wreckage. The boiler exploded and many were scalded by the boiling water.

An investigation is being made to place responsibility for the wreck. It is claimed that there was no signal to warn the engineer that the switch was open.

So many were the victims that at first only those who had been seriously hurt received medical attention. As fast as they were attended they were put aboard the relief train and rushed to hospitals.

EXCURSION AND FREIGHT TRAINS CRASH AT SAUJON FRANCE.

108 PERSONS ARE INJURED

Lives of 1,200 Persons Are Jeopardized by Open Switch—Most of Killed Were School Girls Returning From Vacation.

Paris.—An excursion train was wrecked at Saujon Sunday and 34 persons, many of them school girls, were killed and 80 others were injured, several of them fatally.

The accident came without warning and in the wild panic that followed the crash many of the passengers were trampled upon and probably fatally injured. Speeding at 60 miles an hour, the excursion train with 1,200 passengers on board, struck an open switch and before the engine could be stopped it plunged into a side-tracked freight train.

A relief train, with all the available doctors, was rushed to the scene. The uninjured passengers aided in dragging out the dead and injured. An emergency hospital was established at the side of the track and everything possible was done to aid the victims.

Most of those on board were school girls returning from their vacations. Their frenzied efforts to aid their injured comrades only served to increase the confusion and hampered the doctors considerably in the work of rescue.

The engineer and fireman tried to jump as the crash came, but were pinned in the wreckage. The boiler exploded and many were scalded by the boiling water.

An investigation is being made to place responsibility for the wreck. It is claimed that there was no signal to warn the engineer that the switch was open.

PAUPERISM IS INDIAN PERIL

SALES OF LANDS WOULD MEAN RED MEN'S RUIN.

Cecil Lyon Tells Gore Inquiry Committee His Connection With McMurray Contracts.

Sulphur, Okla.—Witnesses testified before the Gore congressional Indian land investigating committee that if the Indian lands in Oklahoma were sold and the $20,000,000 proceeds were turned over to the Indians in cash, the state within ten years would be flooded with paupers.

It was asserted that many of the Indians who signed the McMurray contracts, allowing a ten per cent. "attorney fee" to J. F. McMurray and his associates, were financially irresponsible. They would soon squander the cash, it was declared, and within a few years the country would be confronted with the problem of how to take care of them.

Except for the appearance on the stand of Cecil A. Lyon, Republican national committeeman of Texas, the witnesses were all Indians. Mr. Lyon told of his financial interest in the old tribal McMurray contracts, which provided for a ten per cent. fee, but which were disapproved by President Roosevelt in 1908.

Asked if he had been invited by McMurray to join in the deal because of his political influence and his acquaintance with Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Lyon said he supposed he was, but he also attributed the invitation to his business ability.

Many Chickasaws testified they were willing to give McMurray as high as 25 per cent. attorney's fees if he would sell the land within a year.

NEWSPAPER ARCHIVE

LIVERPOOL TO WALES, JUNE 29.

The Winifredonia machinery stopped at exactly eight o'clock Tuesday evening. Two tugs "used" us up to her pier, and we disembarked to be "searched" in the custom house shed at Liverpool. There is an element of the humorous bordering on the comic in this performance. One hundred fifty people, usually quite independent in their own country are rounded up to their stails, alphabetically arranged, facing their baggage of from two to five pieces. Then upon the request of a man in uniform each opens and displays his belongings. Silence marks the process. Not a voice is heard except the question of the holdup man and the "declaration" of the hold up. It is a solemn occasion, and a big sigh of relief marks the termination of the comedy.

Liberated from the "pen" we rush for the waiting special which is to take us to the walled city of Chester down near the Welsh border line. We find our "carriage" and stow ourselves away in the little compartment, each of which has its own door leading out to the depot platform. For the first time in our lives we are "foreigners," and we try to look unconcerned as we notice that the native born observers have "spotted" us. We are really "green" but our attitude toward people who are "strangers in a strange land" is in our country. But if we feel a little "raw" here in England, how will it be longer in Italy and Greece where the language will be unintelligible to most of us, the money stragglers still and the food, well we are still in England.

The toy engine hitched to our tiny carriages has tooted its imitation whistle, and we are off for a delightfully cozy and comfortable ride. The twilight lasts long enough to give us glimpses of beautiful English hillside slopes, artistic farm houses with shady elms and well kept grass carpet and fields. Ten o'clock finds us at Chester and we retire quickly to rest for tomorrow we shall see our first walled city and the old Roman camp. The word Chester means camp.

We are up bright and early Wednesday morning humming "Miller of the Dee," for Chester is on the river Dee and not far from here dwell the miller "hale and bold" who "worked and sang from morn till night" and of him they say there was "no lark more hiltie than he." Centuries ago the Romans had a camp here at Chester, and as we walk on the top of the old battlement wall we wonder if they built it so long ago. No one knows just when the wall was built, but many think that the Romans needed it when they met the valiant Welshmen in their own hills. Chester is really a Welsh town and the Welshmen have inhabited this region for no one knows how long. How would you like to walk on sidewalks, roofed over to protect you from the rain, and how would you like to walk on covered sidewalks built on the roofs of houses? They are here in this quaint old town, and we are walking on them today.

Chester has an old, old cathedral, and that is what brought us here, and in a later letter I may tell you about the famous cathedrals we visit so will pass this one now.

Before we go we take a ride in the second story of an English tram, street car, and then hurry to the depot where our train is waiting for us. Ours is a special train. It goes when we say so and stops when we signal.

We are to be pilgrims now, bound for the shrine of Shakespeare. Stratford-on-Avon is our next stop and our train can not run too fast to get us there.

We are traveling through Wales. Aberystwyth is no our line, but we do not try to pronounce it.

Not even our own Green Mountains or the famous Swiss scenery can rival the hilly country of Wales. We are told, and just now we are ready to believe it. Our little engine is a swift one even though it is small, and we are going through these beautiful mountains and valleys faster than we care to go.

The Welsh are a sturdy people. For centuries they fought for life in these mountain fastnesses, and their descendants have in them the inherited strength of character of their warlike ancestors. It is no wonder that they are naturally "olanch." They are an honest, hospitable, religious people, fond of music, and devoted to their homes and families.

We are passing through mining districts now, where coal and iron are brought to the surface and shipped to Birmingham a little farther along. We shall pass through Birmingham soon, and I shall be glad to see it, as it is the very largest iron manufacturing city in the world.

Our party is a pleasant one made up, as usual, of all kinds of people. There is the jolly man and the subdued man; the "silly lady" and the "sassy lady." Then there is the one who is afraid the train will go off without us, and the one who would not worry at all if it should. One bows very solemnly when she meets anyone and another cheerily says "Howdy do." There are some who like to be helpful and others who on joy being helped. Our party is just a little community out for a vacation combined with a little study. We shall be together until we go ashore at Buxton, Sept. 9, when we shall separate, going to our varied work in twenty-four different states and territories. We shall go home loaded with note books and pleasant memories for we are all seeing all there is to see and hearing all there is to hear in the time allotted.

We are on English soil now. I have just counted seven men at work in one hay field of not more than five acres. They are turning the hay with pitchforks. In another field one man is leading a horse while another is holding a diminutive cultivator. Three others are hoeing, and the field does not contain a square inch more than one acre. The fields are laid out with great care. Not a crooked row could be seen during the entire trip, and every field is perfectly clear of weeds.

We have just been informed that Stratford-on-Avon is the next station and we must be ready. Ten observation buses are to meet our party at the station for a ride to the Ann Hathaway cottage a mile away.

BIRON Mr. and Mrs. O. Hansen of your city were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sipe last Sunday.

Emil Coon Sundayed in Rudolph. Some attraction there all right!

Labor Day Proclamation. Governor Davidson on Tuesday issued a proclamation designating Monday, Sept. 5, as Labor day. He recommends that all industrial concerns suspend operations on that day and that, as far as possible, employers and employees alike join in the celebration.

VESPER. The base ball game at Vesper Sunday between Grand Rapids and Vesper was won by the home boys with a score of 11 to 2. Score by innings: Vesper 2 2 0 0 0 0 7 0—11; Grand Rapids 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0—2.

This is the third game that Grand Rapids lost to Vesper but not discouraged Grand Rapids will come again next Sunday, Aug. 28 and at least try to win one game from Vesper. The game will be a good one as both teams are determined to win and therefore the game will be well worth seeing.

Vesper Wood Mfg. Co. are crowded with work on account of the large amount of silos they are selling. They are making and set up all complete on the average of a silo per day.

John Stahl and wife of Arpin visited at the Princto home Sunday.

Miss Barbara Garlow of Milwaukee is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. Truett.

Geo. Whittingham of Arpin is visiting at the Moore home.

O. R. Goldsworthy is having some improvements made on his properties No. 45 and 67-Cameron Ave.

The new hotel is nearly-completed and they expect to start business about the middle of September.

Congressman E. A. Morse will speak at the Opera House in Vesper on Tuesday evening, Aug. 30. Every farmer in this city should attend this speech as Mr. Morse is a good talker, and will discuss issues of vital interest to the people.

IMPROVEMENTS AT THE OPERA HOUSE. John E. Daly has a gang of men at work under the direction of George Miller, the architect, engaged in remodeling the stage of the opera house, and when it is completed Mr. Daly will be in a position to handle anything in the show line that may come along.

The stage part of the theater is being widened to the full width of the building and this part will also be raised so that standard size scenery can be placed in the house.

Mr. Daly has also booked a number of attractions that could not have been staged here under the old conditions, and the indications are that we will have some good shows in the future.

Don't miss the republican speech at the opera house Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Be sure and take a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with you when starting on your trip this summer. It cannot be obtained on board the trains or steamers. Changes of water and climate often cause sudden attacks of diarrhoea, and it is best to be prepared. Sold by all dealers.

For County Clerk. To the Voters of Wood County: I wish to announce that I am a candidate for the office of County Clerk and shall seek the nomination through the regular primary on Sept. 6, 1910, on the republican ticket. If nominated and elected, I shall give my entire time and attention to the faithful discharge of the duties of the office.

F. H. Eberhardt—4t Democrats who desire the preservation of their party must exhibit a genuine interest at the primaries September 6. Party candidates must receive 20 per cent. of the vote cast for governor at the last general election or the organization practically becomes non est. Of course a demagogue can run independently even in the absence of the percentage requirement, but he cannot derive the important advantage incident to the appearance of his name in the column designated democratic. It has been well said that the "good of the commonwealth" demands a strong minority party in this state or any state. Good citizenship, as well as party loyalty, demands that democrats stay in their own primaries on September 6th.—Madison Democrat.

E. R. Hicks, ex-attorney general will speak in the opera house Wednesday evening, Sept. 24 at 8 o'clock. Subject: True Republicanism.

Would You Like a Peek at the New Fall Arrivals?

WE are just opening up our FALL GOODS---th first shipments. There is one big case of clothing which we have just finished unpacking, assorting and pricing. They are all up in the cabinets ready for inspection and such clothes as was never our good fortune to see before. They are marvels in the ready to-wear tailoring line. If you don't agree with us either your taste or ours is at fault.

Then there is another shipment of the new Fall colors and weaves in neckwear. We will let it talk for itself. The fact that it comes from one of the greatest neckwear houses may have something to do with its attractiveness.

Then there are the new hats, all ready for inspection--a trifle early for most of you, perhaps, but it will take you a little while to get used to yourself in a new style after wearing light weights and high colors all summer, in short, everything in the store has an air of newness and novelty, and the man who wants to be first on the ground will be as enthusiastic over our new styles as we are ourselves.

Although you will find some things in the windows, most of them we are holding for a little later but if you come in and ask for them we will gladly show them to you.

A Chicago preacher recently resigned his position to go on the stage with a traveling theatrical troupe. He gave as his reason for the change that the salary of $1200 a year was too low for him to live on. He may find, unless he is better paid than the average actor, that a little old twelve hundred a year isn't to be sneezed at, after all.

A Successful Alumni.

The attendance at the first annual meeting of the Grand Rapids High School Alumni Association last Friday night exceeded the expectations of those who laid the plans, and at the present time there is more than an ordinary amount of enthusiasm prevailing. Over one hundred eligible members were in attendance and there was a great deal of work accomplished. The officers who were elected in June were re-elected for the coming year, three committees were appointed, and plans were made for the publication of an alumni bulletin as soon as possible. A group of five live ones constitute the entertainment committee and it is generally believed that a social function will be given in September. The constitution which was adopted at the meeting Friday evening contains a clause ordering all dues of 25 cents each to be paid to the treasurer, George Hill, before the first of September, and it is hoped that the members will pay as promptly as possible. Following is a list of the officers and committees for the coming year:

President—Clay Lambertson, '04
Vice Pres.—Belle Qain, '03
Secretary—Ryland Boorman, '08
Asst. Sec.—Floyd Qain, '05
Treasurer—George Hill, '10
Press Committee—Clarence Jackson, '08, Lynn Rennie, '08, Frank Natwick, '04, Louis Reichel, '10, Carl Odegard, '04.

Entertainment Committee—Katherine Kellogg, '08, Marvin Hatch, '08, Mrs. Wilbur Herschleb, '07, Caroline Garrison, '06, Luella Jackson, '06.

Finance Committee—George Hill, '10, Fred Eberhardt, '06, Myron Natwick, '10, Mae Baruch, '06 and Lloyd Miller, '09.

Card of Thanks.
We hereby desire to thank our kind neighbors and friends who so willingly offered their help during the sickness and after the death of our beloved daughter and sister, Helen Mennier.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mennier and family.

Complimenting the Children.
An exchange says: "If the old bundle could should get out many a man or woman would walk the streets half the night looking for her, but let a 13 year old son or daughter fail to show up and the parents realize for the night. We dare not be too hopeful over future of the human race as long as mothers and fathers think more of rounding up a $20 cow or a $3 sheep than they do of, caring for sons and daughters at reasonably hours in the evening."

Some children need a shepherd to gather them in of nights and see if all of them are at home and if every thing is safe, and then there are others who, at 18 years, have brains enough to come in of their own accord.

It would seem rather a compliment than otherwise to take it for granted that the children had sense enough to take care of themselves after dark. We expect to have to take care of cattle and other domestic animals, but human beings are supposed to be endowed with more sense.

Improvement on Old Adage.
"Say nothing, but what is good of the living" is an excellent motto.

CRANBERRY MEN

HOLD A MEETING.

The annual summer meeting of the Wisconsin State Cranberry Growers' association was held at the Gaynor marsh on Tuesday. The attendance was not as large as it has often been in former years, but there was a good attendance of growers and others interested in the industry.

Dinner was served at noon by the ladies and after all had eaten those interested in the program went to the cranberry house where there was a number of interesting talks by those present, there being one by John A. Gaynor and also by Messrs. Maldo, Tucker and Postiff, the latter being from the experiment station.

One of the things that attracted considerable attention was the pumping that was being done to flood the bogs of the experimentation. This is only an experiment as yet, but it might prove a valuable one to growers if successful.

A meeting of the sales company was also held during the day, at the conclusion of the other meeting. Taken altogether the day was a most successful one, and the growers were in a more hopeful state than they have been for some time, owing to the recent rains.

Vote Your Party Ticket.
Every democrat and republican too, for that matter, should get out on Tuesday, Sept. 2, and vote his party ticket.

A man never makes anything by taking part in the quarrels of his neighbors. The republicans may be having a warm time among themselves, but it is strictly none of our business, and the less we have to do with it the better we are off. There is nothing like minding your own business in a case of this kind. Vote your own ticket at the primaries, for there are just as good men on the democratic ticket as on any other and they should receive the party vote.

Three Questions.
Wausau Pilot.—Three questions will be submitted to the voters at the next election. One of these is whether or not the state shall take a census every ten years as a basis for the apportionment of legislative seats. In case the state census is dropped, the federal census will be the basis used. The second proposition is the raising of legislators' pay from $2500 to $3000 per year.

The third is that of making provision for the purchase of water powers and forests to be held for present and future generations, instead of letting them fall into the hands of water and lumber trusts.

The voters should weigh these propositions carefully and not vote haphazardly. They all deal directly with every tax payer's pocket book.

The government and the pulp and paper manufacturers of the United States will spend about seventy thousand dollars in an effort to find a substitute for spruce in making pulp and in experimenting with woods that are not now used. The government has agreed to spend forty-four thousand dollars and the paper mill people have added twenty-five thousand dollars to the amount. Some point in eastern Wisconsin is likely to be chosen for the building of an experimental plant to be run under the direction of the Forest Service.

An English firm is said to be putting half a million dollars into a plant in Pennsylvania for the manufacture of silk from pulp wood. For the past two years the manufacture of this silk has been going on in England. The product is called viscose silk and is said to be a very good imitation of the genuine.

For State Senator.
In making my announcement as a candidate for the democratic nomination for State Senator for the 9th senatorial district at the September primaries, I do so only after the earnest solicitation of many friends throughout the district. I shall be grateful for the support that may be tendered me, and assure that if I am nominated and elected it will be my ambition to serve the people in such a manner as will be to their best advantage and to the credit of the democratic party.

Mrs. W. E. Brooks and son Richard returned last week from a two weeks visit with relatives in Muscatine, Iowa.

W. E. Brooks had the honor of securing second prize for the finest corn displayed at the last Pittsville stock fair. Mr. Brooks has 12 acres of the Wisconsin No. 8 corn, and the stocks he displayed at the fair were 10 feet and 5 inches. In fact Mr. Brooks should have had first prize as the other fellow only beat him an inch in length and he had Illinois corn.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Uhlman are entertaining visitors from the southern part of the state.

"If a man has real merit there is nothing that will bring him into nothing so well as abuse."
Archie Grout of Nekeosa has been engaged to teach our school for the coming year. Mr. Grout is a graduate of the Grand Rapids high school and also took the summer course at the Stevens Point Normal this summer and consequently ought to make a good teacher.

Frank Smith and family and Mrs. Mattie Landford of Marshfield drove down in their auto and spent Sunday at Robert Lea's.

Several from this neighborhood attended the "fair" at Pittsville last Saturday and by the way they speak of it, it would be well for the people of Grand Rapids to go over and take some lessons in getting up a successful monthly fair and stock show.

J. W. Cochran, candidate for district attorney and his cousin, Orson Cochran, of Ispawich, S. D., who was looking for stock, were in this neighborhood last Wednesday.

This summer has certainly taught a great lesson in stockraising. Several pure bred Holstein cows were sold from $165 to $325 each. Good grades of different breeds from $50 to $100 while "scrubs" sold at from 1/2 to 3 cents a pound. Fero breeds were higher than last year's grades about the same weight it did last year.

"Jealousy and envy are like weeds—they grow quickly and flourish on many soils but produce nothing that is not poisonous."

Threshing is in progress now and the grain is turning much better than the farmers expected.

When the digestion is all right, the action of the bowels regular, there is a natural craving and relief for food. When this is lacking you may know that you need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They strengthen the digestive organs, improve the appetite and regulate the bowels. Sold by all dealers.

Jos. Deucan lost quite a number of his turkeys by foxes.

MEEHAN

(Too Late for Last Week.)

A large barn on what is known as the Nico Rosenthal place was entirely destroyed by fire last week Wednesday.

A corn crib and small house were also burned. The place and buildings are owned by Mr. P. Hoffman. The origin of the fire is unknown but it is supposed that it caught by a spark from the chimney. The house, granary and other buildings would also have been burned had it not been for the timely arrival and assistance of neighbors and the wind blowing in the opposite direction.

Mr. Hoffman had the barn filled with hay, straw and other feed for winter which he lost. He also lost a large stack of straw, a good set of work harnesses, a hay rack and several pigs. The loss was about five hundred dollars neither party having any insurance.

Wren Starks of Belmont visited relatives here one day last week.

John Pascavich of Linwood was a business visitor here recently.

A good many of our boys are working for Mr. Oodington out on the big marsh cutting brush, clearing land, etc.

Henry Lutz is building a stone silo on his farm. There are also others here who are preparing to build this year.

Miss Myrtle Frost of Rudolph is spending the week in this vicinity visiting with friends.

Quite a crowd from here attended the circus at Stevens Point last Thursday.

The agent for the Wilson Bros. remedies was transacting business here Friday and Saturday.

Roy Barton of St. Cloud, Minn., is visiting some of his old school mates here. Roy lived here a few years ago with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Barton.

The Winifred's machinery stopped at exactly eight o'clock Tuesday evening. Two tags "nosed" us up to her plot, and we disembarked to be "searched" in the custom house shed at Liverpool. There is an element of the humorous bordering on the comic in this performance. One hundred fifty people, usually quite independent in their own country are rounded up to their stables, alphabetically arranged, facing their baggage of from two to five pieces. Then upon the request of a man in uniform each opens and displays his belongings. Silence marks the process. Not a voice is heard except the question of the holdup man and the "declaration" of the hold up. It is a solemn occasion, and a big sigh of relief marks the termination of the comedy.

Liberated from the "pon" we rush for the waiting special which is to take us to the walled city of Chester down near the Welsh border line. We find our "carriage" and stow ourselves away in the little compartment, each of which has its own door leading out to the depot platform. For the first time in our lives we are "foreigners," and we try to look unconcerned as we notice that the native born observers have "spotted" us. We are really "green." How different after this will be our attitude toward people who are "strangers in a strange land" in our country. But if we feel a little "raw" here in England, how will it be over in Italy and Greece where the language will be unintelligible to most of us, the money strangers still and the food, well we are still in England.

The toy engine hitched to our tiny carriages has tooted its imitation whistle, and we are off for a delightfully cozy and comfortable ride. The twilight lasts long enough to give us glimpses of beautiful English hillside slopes, artistic turn houses with shady elms and well kept grass carpet and fields. Ten o'clock finds us at Chester and we retire quickly to rest for tomorrow we shall see our first walled city and the old Roman camp. The word Chester means camp.

We are up bright and early Wednesday morning humming "Miller of the Dee," for Chester is on the river Dee and not far from here dwell the miller "hale and bold" who "worked and sang from morn till night" and of him they say there was "no lark more lively than he." Centuries ago the Romans had a camp here at Chester, and as we walk on the top of the old battlement wall we wonder if they built it so long ago. No one knows just when the wall was built, but many think that the Romans needed it when they met the valiant Welshmen in their own hills. Chester is really a Welsh town and the Welshmen have inhabited this region for no one knows how long.

This is the third game that Grand Rapids lost to Vesper but not discouraged Grand Rapids will come again next Sunday, Aug. 28 and at least try to win one game from Vesper. The game will be a good one as both teams are determined to win and therefore the game will be well worth seeing.

John E. Daly has a gang of men at work under the direction of George Miller, the architect, engaged in remodeling the stage of the opera house, and when it is completed, Mr. Daly will be in a position to handle anything in the show line that may come along.

The stage part of the theater is being widened to the full width of the building and this part will also be raised so that standard size scenery can be placed in the house.

Mr. Daly has also booked a number of attractions that could not have been staged here under the old conditions, and the indications are that we will have some good shows in the future.

For County Clerk.

—To the Voters of Wood County:— I wish to announce that I am a candidate for the office of County Clerk and shall seek the nomination through the regular primary on Sept. 6, 1910, on the republican ticket. If nominated and elected, I shall give my entire time and attention to the faithful discharge of the duties of the office.

F. H. Eberhardt—41

Democrats who desire the preservation of their party must exhibit a genuine interest in the primaries September 6. Party candidates must receive 20 per cent of the vote cast for governor at the last general election or the organization practically becomes non est. Of course a democrat may run independently even in the absence of the percentage requirement, but he cannot derive the important advantage incident to the appearance of his name in the column designated democratic. It has been well said that the "good of the commonwealth demands a strong minority party in this state or any state. Good citizenship, as well as party loyalty, demands that democrats stay in their own primaries on September 6th."—Madison Democrat.

—E. R. Hicks, ex-attorney general will speak in the opera house Wednesday evening, Sept. 24 at 8 o'clock. Subject. True Republicanism.

Would You Like a Peek at the New Fall Arrivals?

WE are just opening up our FALL GOODS---th first shipments. There is one big case of clothing which we have just finished unpacking, assorting and pricing. They are all up in the cabinets ready for inspection and such clothes as was never our good fortune to see before. They are marvels in the ready to-wear tailoring line. If you don't agree with us either your taste or ours is at fault.

Then there is another shipment of the new fall colors and weaves in neckwear. We will let it talk for itself. The fact that it comes from one of the greatest neckwear houses may have something to do with its attractiveness.

Then there are the new hats, all ready for inspection---a trifle early for most of you, perhaps, but it will take you a little while to get used to yourself in a new style after wearing light weights and light colors all summer, in short, everything in the store has an air of newness and novelty, and the man who wants to be first on the ground will be as enthusiastic over our new styles as we are ourselves.

Although you will find some things in the windows, most of them we are holding for a little later but if you come in and ask for them we will gladly show them to you.

Hunting Season Opens Sept. 10.

State Game Warden G. W. Riekman, of Madison, has issued a very handy little pamphlet, summarizing the fish and game laws of the state of Wisconsin.

The pamphlet gives the open season for all fish, animals and birds. It contains a section mentioning things which are unlawful to do in regard to hunting deer and also in regard to the carcasses of the deer. It gives the bag limit of various fowls. The bag limit of partridges is fifteen and of mixed bag of game birds thirty.

The rabbit season in Wood County opens October 10 and closes February 1 succeeding.

The beaver is protected at all times and the fisher, martin, mink, muskrat season is open from November 15 to March 15 succeeding.

The quail and pheasant are protected until 1915. The duck season opens September 1 and closes January 1. Goose can be shot between September 10 and May 1. It is unlawful to shoot aquatic fowl, that is ducks, geese etc., after sunset, but it is lawful to shoot them one hour before sunrise.

Packages containing fish and game must be labeled to show the weight, contents, variety and also the name and address of the consignor and consignee, under penalty of fine and imprisonment.

Game birds cannot be transported unless accompanied by the owner.

The little pamphlets can be secured from County Clerk Fred H. Eberhardt. Every hunter should have one as a handy reference.

Bee's Recognition of Landmarks.

There can be little doubt that so intelligent an insect as a bee has a long memory and a keen eye for landmarks. This is testified to by the fact that almost all bees fly by day, whereas such creatures as moths—of no fixed home or occupation—fly in the darkness. A bee would be lost at midnight because it could not recognize its surroundings.

CRANBERRY MEN HOLD A MEETING.

The annual summer meeting of the Wisconsin State Cranberry Growers' association was held at the Gaylor hotel on Tuesday. The attendance was not as large as it has often been in former years, but there was a good attendance of growers and others interested in the industry.

Dinner was served at noon by the ladies and after all had eaten those interested in the program went to a number of interesting talks by those present, there being one by John A. Gaylor and also by Messrs. Mahle, Tucker and Postiff, the latter being from the experiment station.

One of the things that attracted considerable attention was the pumping that was being done to flood the bays of the experiment station. This is only an experiment as yet, but it might prove a valuable one to growers if successful.

A meeting of the sales company was also held during the day, at the conclusion of the other meeting. Taken altogether the day was a most successful one, and the growers were in a more hopeful state than they have been for some time, owing to the recent rains.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Meade and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Kanyon returned on Monday from a two weeks outing at Rice Lake.

The city policemen have commenced taking their annual vacations. Frank Stahl is acting as substitute during their absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Robinson and family of Wyanawaga were visitors at the James Gibson home several days the past week.

Francis Bender arrived in the city on Friday from Hottinger, N. D., and will spend several weeks here visiting with his parents. Mr. Bender took up a homestead out there last year.

R. P. Matthews the tailor who has rented the place now occupied by the Mair Shoe Company, arrived in the city on Monday and expects to get into his new quarters this week provided the place is vacated by the Mair Company.

The Ladies Foreign Missionary Society of the Congregational church will hold their annual thank offering meeting Sept. 7, at the home of Mrs. B. C. Taggart, 430 Third St. South. A special program has been prepared for this meeting and the ladies urge all members to be present.

—High, dry, healthful, good water. Good soil. Splendid location. Splendid values. Easy payments, large discounts. All the above apply to Overlook Heights Lots. Call at our office or Phone No. 517. The National Realty Sales Co. Office with Wm. Hoess the Plumber.

A Chicago preacher recently resigned his position to go on the stage with a travelling theatrical troupe. He gave as his reason for the change that the salary of $1200 a year was too low for him to live on. He may find, unless he is better paid than the average actor, that a little old twelve hundred a year isn't to be sneezed at, after all.

A Successful Alumni. The attendance at the first annual meeting of the Grand Rapids High School Alumni Association last Friday night exceeded the expectations of those who laid the plans, and at the present time there is more than an ordinary amount of enthusiasm prevailing. Over one hundred eligible members were in attendance and there was a great deal of work accomplished. The officers who were elected in June were re-elected for the coming year, three committees were appointed, and plans were made for the publication of an alumni bulletin as soon as possible. A group of five live ones constitute the entertainment committee and it is generally believed that a social function will be given in September. The constitution which was adopted at the meeting Friday evening contains a clause ordering all dues of 25 cents each to be paid to the treasurer, George Hill, before the first of September, and it is hoped that the members will pay as promptly as possible. Following is a list of the officers and committees for the coming year:

President—Clay Lambertson, '04 Vice Pres.—Belle Quinn, '03 Secretary—Byrdand Bowman, '08. Aist. Sec.—Floyd Quinn, '05 Treasurer—George Hill, '10. Press Committee—Clarence Jackson, '08, Lynn Rounse, '08, Frank Natwick, '04, Louis Reichel, '10, Carl Odgaard, '04. Entertainment Committee—Katherine Kellogg, '08, Marvin Hatch, '08, Mrs. Wilbur Henschel, '07, Caroline Garrison, '05, Lucella Jackson, '05. Finance Committee—George Hill, '10, Fred Eberhardt, '08, Myron Natwick, '10, Mae Barnett, '08 and Lloyd Miller, '08.

Card of Thanks. We hereby desire to thank our kind neighbors and friends who so willingly offered their help during the sickness and after the death of our beloved daughter and sister, Helen Meunier.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Meunier and family.

Complimenting the Children. An exchange says: "If the old brindle cow should get out many a man or woman would walk the streets half the night looking for her, but let a 18 year old son or daughter fail to show up and the parents retire for the night. We dare not be too hopeful over future of the human race as long as mothers and fathers think more of rounding up a $30 cow or a $80 sheep than they do of corralling sons and daughters at reasonably hours in the evening."

Some children need a shepherd to gather them in of nights and see if all of them are at home and if everything is safe, and then there are others who, at 18 years, have brains enough to come in of their own accord.

It would seem rather a compliment than otherwise to take it for granted that the children had sense enough to take care of themselves after dark. We expect to have to take care of our own and other domestic animals, but human beings are supposed to be endowed with more sense.

LIVERPOOL TO WALES, JUNE 29.

By M. H. Jackson.

The Winifred's machinery stopped at exactly eight o'clock Tuesday evening. Two tugs "nosed" us up to her pier, and we disembarked to be "searched" in the custom house shed at Liverpool. There is an element of the humorous bordering on the comic in this performance. One hundred fifty people, usually quite independent in their own country are rounded up to their stails, alphabetically arranged, facing their baggage of from two to five pieces. Then upon the request of a man in uniform each opens and displays his belongings. Silence marks the process. Not a voice is heard except the question of the holdup man and the "declaration" of the hold up. It is a solemn occasion, and a big sigh of relief marks the termination of the comedy.

Liberated from the "pun" we rush for the waiting special which is to take us to the walled city of Chester down near the Welsh border line. We find our "carriage" and stow ourselves away in the little compartment, each of which has its own door leading out to the depot platform. For the first time in our lives we are "foreigners," and we try to look unconcerned as we notice that the native born observers have "spotted" us. We are really "green"! How different after this will be our attitude toward people who are "strangers in a strange land" in our country. But if we feel a little "raw" here in England, how will it be over in Italy and Greece where the language will be unintelligible to most of us, the money strangers still and the food, well we are still in England.

The toy engine hitched to our tiny carriages has tooted its imitation whistle, and we are off for a delightfully cozy and comfortable ride. The twilight lasts long enough to give us glimpses of beautiful English hillside slopes, artistic farm houses with shady elms and well kept grass carpet and fields. Ten o'clock finds us at Chester and we realize quickly to rest for tomorrow we shall see our first walled city and the old Roman camp. The word Chester means camp.

We are up bright and early Wednesday morning humming "Miller of the Dee," for Chester is on the river Dee and not far from here dwelt the miller "hale and bold" who "worked and sang from morn till night" and of him they say there was "no lark more blithe than he." Centuries ago the Romans had a camp here at Chester, and as we walk on the top of the old battlement wall we wonder if they built it so long ago. No one knows just when the wall was built, but many think that the Romans needed it when they met the valiant Welshmen in their own hills. Chester is really a Welsh town and the Welshmen have inhabited this region for no one knows how long.

How would you like to walk on sidewalks, roofed over to protect you from the rain, and how would you like to walk on covered sidewalks built on the roofs of houses? They are here in this quaint old town, and we are walking on them today.

Chester has an old, old cathedral and that is what brought us here, and in a later letter I may tell you about the famous cathedrals we visit so will pass this one now.

Before we go we take a ride in the second story of an English tram, street car, and then hurry to the depot where our train is waiting for us. Ours is a special train. It goes when we say so and stops when we signal.

We are to be pilgrims now, bound for the shrine of Shakespeare. Stratford-on-Avon is our next stop and our train can not run too fast to get us there.

We are traveling through Wales. Aberystwyth is no our line, but we do not try to pronounce it. Not even our own Green Mountains or the famous Swiss scenery can rival the hilly country of Wales, we are told, and just now we are ready to believe it. Our little engine is a swift one even though it is small, and we are going through these beautiful mountains and valleys faster than we care to go.

The Welsh are a sturdy people. For centuries they fought for life in these mountain fastnesses, and their descendants have in them the inherited strength of character of their warlike ancestors. It is no wonder that they are naturally "clannish," that trait was a necessity once. They are an honest, hospitable, religious people, fond of music, and devoted to their homes and families.

We are passing through mining districts now, where coal and iron are brought to the surface and shipped to Birmingham a little farther along. We shall pass through Birmingham soon, and I shall be glad to see it, as it is the very largest iron manufacturing city in the world.

Our party is a pleasant one made up, as usual, of all kinds of people. There is the jolly man and the subdued man; the "silly lady" and the "sassy lady." Then there is the one who is afraid the train will go off without us, and the one who would not worry at all if it should. One bows very solemnly when she meets anyone and another cheerily says "Howdy do." There are some who like to be helpful and others who on joy being helped. Our party is just a little community out for a vacation combined with a little study. We shall be together until we go ashore at Bournemouth, Sept. 9, when we shall separate, going to our varied work in twenty-four different states and territories. We shall go home loaded with note books and pleasant memories for we are all seeing all there is to see and hearing all there is to hear in the time allotted.

We are on English soil now. I have just counted seven men at work in one hay field of not more than five acres. They are turning the hay with pitchforks. In another field one man is leading a horse while another is holding a diminutive cultivator. Three others are hoeing, and the field does not contain a square inch more than one acre. The fields are laid out with great care. Not a crooked row could be seen during the entire trip, and every field is perfectly clear of weeds.

We have just been informed that Stratford-on-Avon is the next station and we must be ready. Ten observation buses are to meet our party at the station for a ride to the Ann Hathaway cottage a mile away.

John E. Daly has a gang of men at work under the direction of George Miller, the architect, engaged in remodeling the stage of the opera house, and when it is completed Mr. Daly will be in a position to handle anything in the show line that may come along.

The stage part of the theater is being widened to the full width of the building and this part will also be raised so that standard size scenery can be placed in the house.

Mr. Daly has also booked a number of attractions that could not have been staged here under the old conditions, and the indications are that we will have some good shows in the future.

For County Clerk.

To the Voters of Wood County:—I wish to announce that I am a candidate for the office of County Clerk and shall seek the nomination through the regular primary on Sept. 6, 1910, on the republican ticket. If nominated and elected, I shall give my entire time and attention to the faithful discharge of the duties of the office.

F. H. Eberhardt—It

Democrats who desire the preservation of their party must exhibit a genuine interest at the primaries September 6. Party candidates must receive 20 per cent. of the vote cast for governor at the last general election or the organization practically becomes non est. Of course a democrat must vote independently even in the absence of the percentage requirement, but he cannot derive the important advantage incident to the appearance of his name in the column designated democratic. It has been well said that the "good of the commonwealth demands a strong minority party in this state or any state. Good citizenship, as well as party loyalty, demands that democrats stay in their own primaries on September 6th."—Madison Democrat.

—E. R. Hicks, ex-attorney general will speak in the opera house Wednesday evening, Sept. 24 at 8 o'clock. Subject: True Republicanism.

Would You Like a Peek at the New Fall Arrivals?

WE are just opening up our FALL GOODS—with first shipments. There is one big case of clothing which we have just finished unpacking, assorting and pricing. They are all up in the cabinets ready for inspection and such clothes as was never our good fortune to see before. They are marvels in the ready-to-wear tailoring line. If you don't agree with us either your taste or ours is at fault.

Then there is another shipment of the new Fall colors and weaves in neckwear. We will let it talk for itself. The fact that it comes from one of the greatest neckwear houses may have something to do with its attractiveness.

Then there are the new hats, all ready for inspection—a trifle early for most of you, perhaps, but it will take you a little while to get used to yourself in a new style after wearing light weights and high colors all summer, in short, everything in the store has an air of newness and novelty, and the man who wants to be first on the ground will be as enthusiastic over our new styles as we are ourselves.

Although you will find some things in the windows, most of them we are holding for a little later but if you come in and ask for them we will gladly show them to you.

This means that a busy little creature has had its bank in your apple before you have probably laid an egg at the sign of the crescent encircled. A spray compound of 7 ounces of acetate of lead and four ounces essence of soda to fifty gallons of water used in the orchard will catch practically all these orchard destroyers."

Among the insects injurious to health, common housefly takes first rank. Dr. Fox has found that 75 per cent. of the common houseflies breed in horse manure. As the flies that will kill the housefly maggots are dangerous to use in stables, except boiled water, which is hardly practicable, the prevention seems to lie in serf-sanitization against flies as we do our houses and in cavity sanitation.

CRANBERRY MEN HOLD A MEETING.

The annual summer meeting of the Wisconsin State Cranberry Growers' association was held at the Gaynor marsh on Tuesday. The attendance was not as large as it has often been in former years, but there was a good attendance of growers and others interested in the industry.

Dinner was served at noon by the ladies and after all had eaten those interested in the program went to the cranberry house where there was a number of interesting talks by those present, there being one by John A. Gaynor and also by the late, Mr. Malde, Tucker and Postis, the latter being from the experimental station.

One of the things that attracted considerable attention was the pumping that was being done to flood the bays of the experiment station. This is only an experiment as yet, but it might prove a valuable one to growers if successful.

A meeting of the sales company was also held during the day, at the conclusion of the other meeting. Taken altogether the day was a most successful one, and the growers were in a more hopeful state than they have been for some time, owing to the recent rains.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Meade and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Konyon returned on Monday from a two weeks outing at Rice Lake.

The city policemen have commenced taking their annual vacations. Frank Stahl is acting as substitute during their absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Robinson and family of Weyauwega were visitors at the James Gibson home several days last week.

Francis Bender arrived in the city on Friday from Hettinger, N. D., and will spend several weeks here visiting with his parents. Mr. Bender took up a homestead out there last year.

R. F. Matthews the tailor who has rented the place now occupied by the Muir Shoe Company, arrived in the city on Monday and expects to get into his new quarters this week provided the place is vacated by the Muir Company.

The Ladies Foreign Missionary Society of the Congregational church will hold their annual thank offering meeting Sept. 7, at the home of Mrs. B. G. Egbert, 430 Third St. South. A special program has been prepared for this meeting and the ladies urge all members to be present.

—High, dry, healthful, good water. Good soil. Splendid location. Splendid values. Easy payments, large discounts. All the above apply to Overlook Heights Lots. Call at our office or Phone No. 517. The National Realty Sales Co. Office with Wm. Hess the Plumber.

A Chicago preacher recently resigned his position to go on the stage with a traveling theatrical troupe. He gave as his reason for the change that the salary of $200 a year was too low for him to live on. He may find, unless he is better paid than the average actor, that a little old twelve hundred a year isn't to be sneezed at, after all.

A Successful Alumni.

The attendance at the first annual meeting of the Grand Rapids High School Alumni Association last Friday night exceeded the expectations of those who laid the plans, and at the present time there is more than an ordinary amount of enthusiasm prevailing. Over one hundred eligible members were in attendance and there was a great deal of work accomplished. The officers who were elected in June were re-elected for the coming year, three committees were appointed, and plans were made for the publication of an alumni bulletin as soon as possible. A group of five live ones constitute the entertainment committee and it is generally believed that a social function will be given in September. The constitution which was adopted at the meeting Friday evening contains a clause ordering all dues of 25 cents each to be paid to the treasurer, George Hill, before the first of September, and it is hoped that the members will pay as promptly as possible. Following is a list of the officers and committees for the coming year:

President—Olay Lambertson, '04

Vice Pres.—Belle Quin, '03

Secretary—Rayland Boorman, '03

At-Large Sec.—Ploy Quin, '05

Treasurer—George Hill, '05

Press Committee—Clarence Jackson, '05, Lynn Renne, '03, Frank Natwick, '04, Louis Reichel, '10, Carl Odgaard, '04

Entertainment Committee—Katharine Kellogg, '08, Marvin Hatch, '08, Mrs. Wilbur Herschleb, '07, Caroline Garrison, '05, Luella Jackson, '05

Finance Committee—George Hill, '10, Fred Eberhardt, '06, Myron Natwick, '10, Mae Barnoch, '06 and Lloyd Miller, '06

Card of Thanks.

We hereby desire to thank our kind neighbors and friends who so willingly offered their help during the sickness and after the death of our beloved daughter and sister, Helen Meunier.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Meunier and family.

Complimenting the Children.

An exchange says: "If the old brindle cow should get out many a man or woman would walk the streets half the night looking for her, but let a 13 year old son or daughter fail to show up and the parents retire for the night. We dare not be too hopeful over future of the human race as long as mothers and fathers think more of rounding up a $20 cow or a $30 goat than they do of corralling sons and daughters at reasonable hours in the evening."

Some children need a shepherd to gather them in of nights and see if all of them are at home and if every thing is safe, and then there are others who, at 13 years, have brains enough to come in of their own accord.

It would seem rather a compliment than otherwise to take it for granted that the children had sense enough to take care of themselves after dark. We expect to have to take care of our children and other domestic animals, but human beings are supposed to be endowed with more sense.

Improvement on Old Adage.

"Say nothing but what is good of the living" is an excellent motto.

A Chicago preacher recently resigned his position to go on the stage with a traveling theatrical troupe. He gave as his reason for the change that the salary of $200 a year was too low for him to live on. He may find, unless he is better paid than the average actor, that a little old twelve hundred a year isn't to be sneezed at, after all.

A Successful Alumni.

The attendance at the first annual meeting of the Grand Rapids High School Alumni Association last Friday night exceeded the expectations of those who laid the plans, and at the present time there is more than an ordinary amount of enthusiasm prevailing. Over one hundred eligible members were in attendance and there was a great deal of work accomplished. The officers who were elected in June were re-elected for the coming year, three committees were appointed, and plans were made for the publication of an alumni bulletin as soon as possible. A group of five live ones constitute the entertainment committee and it is generally believed that a social function will be given in September. The constitution which was adopted at the meeting Friday evening contains a clause ordering all dues of 25 cents each to be paid to the treasurer, George Hill, before the first of September, and it is hoped that the members will pay as promptly as possible. Following is a list of the officers and committees for the coming year:

President—Olay Lambertson, '04

Vice Pres.—Belle Quin, '03

Secretary—Rayland Boorman, '03

At-Large Sec.—Ploy Quin, '05

Treasurer—George Hill, '05

Press Committee—Clarence Jackson, '05, Lynn Renne, '03, Frank Natwick, '04, Louis Reichel, '10, Carl Odgaard, '04

Entertainment Committee—Katharine Kellogg, '08, Marvin Hatch, '08, Mrs. Wilbur Herschleb, '07, Caroline Garrison, '05, Luella Jackson, '05

Finance Committee—George Hill, '10, Fred Eberhardt, '06, Myron Natwick, '10, Mae Barnoch, '06 and Lloyd Miller, '06

Card of Thanks.

We hereby desire to thank our kind neighbors and friends who so willingly offered their help during the sickness and after the death of our beloved daughter and sister, Helen Meunier.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Meunier and family.

Complimenting the Children.

An exchange says: "If the old brindle cow should get out many a man or woman would walk the streets half the night looking for her, but let a 13 year old son or daughter fail to show up and the parents retire for the night. We dare not be too hopeful over future of the human race as long as mothers and fathers think more of rounding up a $20 cow or a $30 goat than they do of corralling sons and daughters at reasonable hours in the evening."

Some children need a shepherd to gather them in of nights and see if all of them are at home and if every thing is safe, and then there are others who, at 13 years, have brains enough to come in of their own accord.

It would seem rather a compliment than otherwise to take it for granted that the children had sense enough to take care of themselves after dark. We expect to have to take care of our children and other domestic animals, but human beings are supposed to be endowed with more sense.

Improvement on Old Adage.

"Say nothing but what is good of the living" is an excellent motto.

CRANBERRY MEN HOLD A MEETING.

The annual summer meeting of the Wisconsin State Cranberry Growers' association was held at the Gaynor marsh on Tuesday. The attendance was not as large as it has often been in former years, but there was a good attendance of growers and others interested in the industry.

Dinner was served at noon by the ladies and after all had eaten those interested in the program went to the cranberry house where there was a number of interesting talks by those present, there being one by John A. Gaynor and also by the late, Mr. Malde, Tucker and Postis, the latter being from the experimental station.

One of the things that attracted considerable attention was the pumping that was being done to flood the bays of the experiment station. This is only an experiment as yet, but it might prove a valuable one to growers if successful.

A meeting of the sales company was also held during the day, at the conclusion of the other meeting. Taken altogether the day was a most successful one, and the growers were in a more hopeful state than they have been for some time, owing to the recent rains.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Meade and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Konyon returned on Monday from a two weeks outing at Rice Lake.

The city policemen have commenced taking their annual vacations. Frank Stahl is acting as substitute during their absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Robinson and family of Weyauwega were visitors at the James Gibson home several days last week.

Francis Bender arrived in the city on Friday from Hettinger, N. D., and will spend several weeks here visiting with his parents. Mr. Bender took up a homestead out there last year.

R. F. Matthews the tailor who has rented the place now occupied by the Muir Shoe Company, arrived in the city on Monday and expects to get into his new quarters this week provided the place is vacated by the Muir Company.

The Ladies Foreign Missionary Society of the Congregational church will hold their annual thank offering meeting Sept. 7, at the home of Mrs. B. G. Egbert, 430 Third St. South. A special program has been prepared for this meeting and the ladies urge all members to be present.

Nugget of Truth.
A person who is very set in his way has to stumble over himself to get anywhere.—Puck.

Swing of the Pendulum
Many words of the highest literary excellence went bounding among the publishers' and the reminiscent person. You answered the man who doesn't care for best sellers. But the publishers appear to have learned their lesson. Nowadays they seem willing to put almost anything into print.
Look to the Future
What have the dinners of yesterday to do with tomorrow? Why spend your time turning over old straw?
One Source of Knowledge
A novelist can learn something from everybody—and a great deal from women perhaps more than he thinks from these latter.

The pamphlet gives the open season for all fish, animals and birds. It contains a section mentioning things which are unlawful to do in regard to hunting deer and also in regard to the carcass of the deer. It gives the bag limit of partridges is fifteen and of mixed bag of game birds thirty.

The rabbit season in Wood county opens October 10 and closes February 1.

Game birds cannot be transported unless accompanied by the owner. The little pamphlets can be secured from County Clerk Fred H. Eberhardt. Every hunter should have one as a handy reference.
